

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A system and method for providing notification of significant events such as received or disposed of messages in a unified communication services network. Notifications are event based and may be filtered according to predetermined criteria. One or more event managers may, among other things, manage the receipt and dispersal of event notifications and pass the notifications to one or more notification handlers for dispersal of the notifications to subscribers.

RES 58835v1